RE: European End of Life Notice

Dear Valued Customer,

Thank you for your continued commitment and support of Edwards Lifesciences. Our records indicate that you have one or more Vigileo hemodynamic monitoring devices in your facility. We would like to inform you that Edwards will discontinue new sales of Vigileo as of the 31st of August 2016. However, we will continue to provide the following product support to existing customers:

- Service & Support, including repairs for 2 years up to the 31st of August 2018.
 - Support and training from an Edwards Lifesciences representative, depending on location and availability of Edwards personnel
 - Note, no future software versions will be released for the Vigileo Monitor

Edwards initiates this decision on the basis of an immediate replacement device being available (EV1000), and plans to release a new hemodynamic modular platform in 2017. Please contact your local Edwards Critical Care representative Lifesciences representative for additional information.

We look forward to continuing to work closely with your organization to ensure a smooth transition as we finalize discontinuation of the Vigileo hemodynamic monitor. Thank you for your continued support and desire to improve patient care.

Sincerely,

David Naylor
